LOCAL BRIEFS.

MISSIE Se'ma, Mamie and Alma Dawson, of Lenoir, are in the city, the guests of their aunt Mrs. Jno. Slaughter.

Mr. Jno. C. Miller left yesterday for Raleigh, to join a party from that city that starts this morning for the World's Fair.

Miss Carrie Moore has returned to her home in this city from Asheville, and her many friends here are glad to see her.

Mrs. N. O. Berry and children, who have been spending so much time at the home of her mother, near Point Caswell, have returned to the city.

We regret exceedingly to chronicle the extreme illness of Mrs. J. M. Powell, at their home in this city, from fever. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Charles H. Est, eldest son of our popular and efficient Chief of Police, is confined to his home by fever illness, we are sorry to learn. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

We regret exceedingly to chronicle the untimely death of the estimable, young wife of Mr. John Lynch, a prosperous young farmer of Greene county, which sad event occurred yesterday at noon.

Another driven well is being dug at the Goldsboro Ice Factory, and has already reached the depth of 140 feet. It is proposed to drive it on down till an inexhaustible supply of water is tapped. Success to the enterprise.

Mr. Henry Weil, who with his little daughter Gertrude and little son Hermann have been taking in the World's Fair, is at home again, and expresses the opinion that every body who can, should not fail to visit the great exposition.

Since his arrival in the city and hearing of the coming bicycle carnival that is to be held on his splendid race course here, Mr. Geo. D. Bennett is taking active interest in the event and will aid in every way possible to make it a brilliant success.

So large and enthusiastic was the gathering of legislators and public-spirited citizens on the race course yesterday afternoon, and such lively interest was manifested in the carnival that it is now safe to say it will be a grand success.

The resignation of Collector White has been sent forward to the President and his Democratic successor, Hon. F. M. Simmons, who was in the city yesterday from Washington, D. C., expects his appointment before the week expires. It is good.

The first fox hunt of the season with the Goldsboro pack of Co., which are the finest in the State, was held yesterday, with Messrs. Tice, Edwards and Will Hunter "on deck" when the "brush" was taken. The trail lasted for an hour and the "chase" for forty minutes. It was hilarious and exciting and the "brush" was a very fine one.

His many relatives and here of friends in this city and section will regret to learn that Mr. Lonnie B. Sasser, son of our esteemed countryman Mr. A. L. Sasser, is quite sick with fever at the home of his father in Fork township, having come home from Wilmington, Wednesday, where he has been engaged successfully for some time past in the drug business. We all hope that his illness may be of short duration and that he may be speedily restored to his wonted health.

In consequence of business engagements, which could not be postponed, we regret to announce that Col. Swift Gallaway will not deliver his address before Thomas Ruffin Camp Confederate Veterans, at the reunion of the Camp on Thursday next, on the "Life and Character of Col. Thomas Ruffin," in honor of whom the camp is named. We hope at some future occasion he will deliver his address which was looked forward to with so much pleasure by the Camp and the public generally.

The Board of City Aldermen have enacted a most commendable ordinance in requiring all hogs purchased in this city to be duly castrated, as to marks, &c., by the purchaser, and no barbecue vendor is to expose a hog for sale with the ears cut off or mutilated, in order that the original "mark" of the former owner may be traced in case the hog be stolen. This ordinance has been enacted because of frequent complaint from our country friends that their hogs are stolen when they reach barbecuing size.

The proposed bicycle carnival for Goldsboro, to come off within the next few weeks, with prizes offered sufficiently attractive to draw contestants who in turn will bring visitors from a distance, is now quite an established certainty. Mr. Henry Lee has the event with all its appointments in charge, and this of itself is a guarantee that the affair will be on an elaborate scale and very attractive. We have the best and most convenient race course in the State and there is no reason whatever that the carnival should not be a brilliant success.

The alarm of fire startled our citizens about 2 o'clock Tuesday morning when it was found that the residence of Mr. Jno. R. Smith, on John street, was in flames from the interior. The prompt arrival of the fire department saved the shell of the building and prevented the spread of the flames to contiguous dwellings, but the interior was completely destroyed together with the furniture. There was $1,500 insurance on the dwelling for the benefit of Mrs. W. S. Farmer, who holds the reserve title to the property, and $500 on the furniture. It is not known how the fire originated, as the family were all asleep and not awake till the alarm was given from without. The prompt arrival of Capt. Stafford with the Goldsboro reel deserves especial mention.

The directors of the Bank of Wayne of this city, pursuant to their regular semi-annual meeting Tuesday, have declared a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent, payable on and after the 10th inst., which is to-morrow. Could anything be more encouraging to our people and more creditable to the substantial business methods and progress of Goldsboro? That the Bank of Wayne is able to do this thing at this time, emerging as we are from a great financial crisis that has sat during the long summer months like a blighting infection upon the whole country, is worthy of more than a passing notice. It is said that great crises produce heroes, and Goldsboro has not been lacking in them during the critical financial period that has been our recent experience—standing together, as one man, this community has won the stiffest fight it will ever have again, and from it may they have gained the great virtue of touching a blow to the whole country. Then let us all rejoice that we still have the best town in the country; that our people are practically solidified in their efforts to preserve the common welfare, and that prosperity and happiness are the inevitable destiny of those who labor early and late, combine intelligence and energy, honor courage and despise timidity, love their fellowmen, true in God, strive to do their whole duty, private and public, and keep everlastingly at it. We go forward.

Speaker Crisp.

The unanimous renomination of Speaker Crisp will be ratified by his re-election to-day. He was first called to the chair when the last Congress organized after a most stubborn and bitter struggle with Mills as his antagonist; and it is an open secret the obligations immediately assumed in the contest for the Speakership, in some measure controlled the course of his career of the important committee.

Speaker Crisp has won his second election on the most independent plane. He was accepted by the Democratic caucus because he admitted the best equipped man for the now most responsible position, and he is entitled to the full measure of the honor he has achieved on his individual and official merits. He will re-enter the chair to-day without a single embarrassing obligation, and the new election, with its new duties, clearly demands that he shall rise to the highest standard of patriotic statesmanship in organizing the working forces of the new House.

A most grave condition confronts the new Congress. It is one that was undreamed of when the Congress was chosen, and it must be met with unflinching courage. The man who takes pause at this time to consider partisan interests is neither a politician nor statesman. The party that best serves the country will not surely best serve itself, and the statesmen who most forget party to serve country will reflect the greatest honor upon their political faith.

The committees of the House practically control its legislation, and they should be organized solely in the interest of the business interests of the country. The nation has twice spoken a million-tongued against the paternalism that is lessening the homes of the poor and rearing baronial castles for the rich; and the paternalism extended to a few silver States with hardly one-seventieth of the population of the country, has come back upon us with the sweep of destruction. Paternalism must be more than so-called must be killed, and a bold departure from our suicidal policy will be the first act in the reform drama.

The country has confidence in Speaker Crisp, and that is the highest compliment that could be paid him. With his delicately responsible duties in view of the strange emergency that faces us, the fact that the people have faith in his ability, integrity, patriotism and courage means much more than popular trust in a public servant under ordinary circumstances. It means that the languishing business and industrial interests of a great nation feel safe in the care of the Speaker of the House, and that a eulogy in the present peculiar emergency of the country.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

It Deals Entirely With the Financial Question.

A forecast of President Cleveland's message read before Congress in extra session yesterday, which we received by special telegram from the Richmond Dispatch yesterday afternoon, says:

"The President's message is confined entirely to the financial question. After reciting the business disturbances and charging them directly to the Sherman law, Mr. Cleveland urges the immediate repeal of the present law. He contends that the people are entitled to a sound and stable currency. He advises Congress to rise above party feeling and to legislate at once along this line, and then suggests that the tariff can be reformed later on."

A Timely Criticism.

Editor Argus.—What is the matter with our people? We find many Democrats who voted for the principles and candidates of the party last November who vie with the archaic Third party people in their abuse of President Cleveland and the principles of the party. Never before in the history of the country have we seen so many statesmen, so many financiers so many who know the cause of hard times and the remedies to apply.

Already we think we see the effect of Senator Vance's letter published in answer to the demand of some county Alliance (Third party) meeting, in which he took occasion to malign the President of the United States, the man whom the Democratic party elected last year upon issues clearly defined, and differing materially with those of the Republican or Third party parties. He took occasion to sling more mud at the President than we recollect to have seen coming from any Third party organ, &c., in reflecting upon his integrity, intimating that the President would sell the patronage of his office for votes for the repeal of the Sherman bill.

Our information is that North Carolina has been dealt fairly well with in the distribution of Federal offices, and from the Western part of the State, Senator Vance's own section, from Raleigh to the Tennessee line, every effort has been taken to elect three, that number having been appointed from the East. It seems to us that he has nothing to complain of along that line.

We yield to none in our love and admiration for Senator Vance, but as a layman of the party it occurs to us that the letter could have been left unwritten, as it would have been only two weeks before his constituency would have known how he stood on the Silver question, which he, in common with a great many others, seems to think is the cause of hard times and scarcity of money, forgetful of the fact that the tariff question enters into, or has anything to do with, the scarcity of money.

The writer of this, three years ago, when the Third party were making desperate efforts to elect the Senator in his re-election, on account of his love for him, with three other gentlemen of this place wrote Senator Vance, asking him to address the people of this section at Goldsboro on the issues of the day. In that speech, while he claimed to be a strong advocate for "the dollar of our daddies," (which at one time was worth more than the dollar in gold), he asserted and proved beyond doubt that the tariff had more to do with the depressed condition of affairs than all other things combined.

Is it not time to come to a halt? Stop the abuse of men elected by the Democratic party to give us relief. Wait until they have had an opportunity, and if they do not come up to their promises, with some degree of propriety they can then be criticized.

WAYNE.

The Alleged Whiskey Trust.

CHICAGO, August 5.—Judge Tuley this morning overruled the demurrer filed by the whiskey trust. The issue was whether the court should allow the proceeding brought in the name of the people by Attorney-General Maloney, of Illinois, and intended to dissolve the alleged trust, to be continued. By overruling the demurrer the court will allow suit to continue.

Found an Old Cannon.

GREENVILLE, O., August 5.—Eight miles north of this city to-day John Neff found a cannon captured from St. Clair's soldiers by the Indians during the retreat from Fort Recovery to Greenville in 1791. A derick was used to extricate it from a hole eleven feet deep. It is brass, six feet long, and shoots 6-pound balls.

An Angry Governor.

NEW YORK, August 5.—A special to the "Sun" from Columbia, S. C., says the rough treatment accorded Governor Tillman's dispensary spies in Sumpter and Charleston has made the Governor angry. To day he announced that he was going to arm constables and intended to give them instructions to shoot anybody who interfered with them.

"I'm going to issue orders for the first one of the men to shoot when he is struck. I'm not going to allow State constables to be made dogs of by bar-keepers and their followers."

Mills Shut Down.

LAWRENCE, MASS., August 5.—The Pacific, Washington, Atlantic, Arlington, and Pemberton Mills have been announced shut-downs for from two to four weeks. The Pacific employs 5,000 persons, and the enforced vacation means a loss to them of $75,000!

Lewiston, ME., August 5.—Lewiston Mills shut down to-day at noon for four weeks.

CONGRESSMEN IN CAUCUS.

Mr. Crisp Renominated for Speaker—Other House Officers Chosen.

CAPITOL, WASHINGTON, D. C., August 5.—The hall of the House of Representatives was well filled with Democratic members to-night, when, at 8:30 o'clock, Mr. Holman, chairman of caucus, called it to order. It was known before this hour, however, that Mr. Crisp's nomination as Speaker was assured and that there would be no contest over the speakership. Mr. Turner, of New York, after the action of the New York caucus declaring that he was not a candidate, and Mr. Smith, of Texas, seeing the land-slide in Mr. Hurt's direction, withdrew from the race. After a short speech by Mr. Holman, Mr. Crisp for re-election in a brief but well-timed speech. This nomination was seconded in short, pithy speeches by Messrs. Coombs of New York, Hatch of Missouri, and Wilson of West Virginia, after which Mr. Crisp was nominated by acclamation amid applause. Messrs. Springer, Hatch, and Wilson were elected as a committee to notify the Speaker and a few minutes later brought him into the hall, where he was introduced by Mr. Hatch.

MR. CRISP'S SPEECH.

Mr. Crisp spoke as follows: "The extraordinary condition of affairs throughout the country has necessitated our meeting in extraordinary session. In so far as that condition is attributable to existing law, we are in no wise responsible therefore. Now, for the first time in more than thirty years, we are in full power. We can repeal bad laws, and we can make good ones. The people have entrusted us with their power and expect us to exercise it for their benefit. Our financial system should be revised and reformed. The strictest economy in public expenditures should be observed, and taxation should be equalized and greatly reduced. To these purposes are we thoroughly committed. We must redeem our pledges. Let us begin the work at once. Let us lay aside every other consideration than the public good, and endeavor to discharge the duties assigned us to restore confidence, promote prosperity, and advance the general welfare of all classes of our people."

"Sincerely grateful for your confidence and esteem, I pledge myself to devote to the discharge of the duties of the responsible position you have assigned me all the energy and ability I possess."

OTHER OFFICES SELECTED.

At the conclusion of Speaker Crisp's speech Mr. Ker, of Pennsylvania, was renominated Clerk by acclamation and the caucus then proceeded to the election of a Sergeant-at-Arms, the leading candidates being the present incumbent, Mr. Yoder, of Ohio, and Mr. Snow, of Illinois. The action of the New York delegation in regard to the speakership that threw Mr. Turner out of the race was an agreement to support Mr. Felix McCloskey, of Brooklyn.

It was generally understood at this stage of the proceedings that whatever was to be expected in the shape of a contest the caucus would develop in the struggle for the office of Sergeant-at-Arms.

The Ohio delegation was known to be divided this afternoon, but rumors to the effect that peace had been effected between the two outstanding candidates were not confirmed.

Mr. Leighton, of Ohio, put Mr. Yoder in nomination and Mr. John C. Black, of Illinois, did a like office for Mr. Herman W. Snow, State representative from the same State. In a few moments it was apparent that Mr. Yoder could not hold his own delegation, for Mr. Outhwaite, without naming another candidate, began a spirited attack upon his fellow-statesman. He said that six of the Ohio Democrats, who had stood in the last Congress through thick and thin by Mr. Yoder, were unalterably opposed to his nomination. The reasons were easily stated and should appeal to every Democrat. Mr. Yoder's first act after taking the oath of office had been to appoint a Republican as his chief clerk and lieutenant. Then he had endorsed a Republican for Captain of the Watch, and the appointee had put in his time around the Capitol in lobbying for a bill in his own interest.

Mr. Caminetti, of California, came to Mr. Yoder's assistance with a statement that he had carefully inquired into this last charge and found it to be baseless. Mr. McCreedy, of Virginia, also joined Mr. Caminetti in Mr. Yoder's defense, and declared that the latter had taken the office at a time when it was under a cloud and no other good man could be found to take it. His administration had been free from scandal and his own Democracy was unimpeachable.

Mr. Tom Johnson, another Ohioan, repudiated Mr. Yoder and went to the length of seconding the nomination of Mr. Snow in a ringing speech, winding up with the admonition to the members to put none but Democrats on guard. The ballot, as at first announced, was to be, each candidate having 93. A reconstitution was demanded, and this gave time to the whips to get out into the corridors and pull in members who had wandered away. Some of these voted, and that settled the contest, for Mr. Snow received 96 votes to 95 for Yoder, and was, therefore, declared to be the caucus nominee for Sergeant-at-Arms.

Lyeurgus Dalton, of Indiana, was nominated for Postmaster by acclamation. The candidates for Chaplain were as follows: Rev. George O. Woodruff, of Connecticut (Presbyterian); Rev. S. W. Hadaway, of Maryland (Methodist); Rev. W. S. O. Thomas, of the District of Columbia (Baptist); Rev. E. G. Dagby, of the District of Columbia (Catholic); Rev. Mr. Journey, of North Carolina (Southern Methodist); and Rev. George Elliott, of the District of Columbia (Methodist). One candidate displayed a card bearing this inscription: "My Platform—One Minute Prayers."

On the third ballot Mr. Hadaway, of Maryland, was nominated. The caucus adjourned at 10:55.

Bayard and the Sherman Act.

WILMINGTON, DEL., August 4.—The Evening Evening printed the following to-day:

In a private letter just received Ambassador Bayard says: "I am looking somewhat anxiously to the meeting of Congress, and hope there will be no faltering in the resolve to maintain the gold unit of value. So far from depreciating the intrinsic value of silver bullion, I believe the cessation of storage and accumulation of stock will help the market price for this commodity as it would help any other commodity."

"Whatever future steps may be taken a present step ending the purchase of silver bullion under the Sherman act is of the plainest duty and necessity. Green spectacles put upon a donkey are reported to have induced him to eat shavings instead of grass, but it was not a sustaining diet."

"The intrinsic value of gold makes it the best standard and measure of the unit for the calculation of exchanges, and to unship it is simply to throw the whole machinery of civilized contract out of gear, to bring about confusion and disaster and strike a blow at all obligations of morality and good faith, which are the corner-stone of honest life."

Congress Convened.

Both Houses of the Fifty-third Congress met in extraordinary session Monday. The Senate was in session only a very short time and adjourned, out of the respect to the late Senator Stanford, before the President's message reached the Capitol; so it was not delivered to the two Houses until yesterday.

The House organized by the election of Mr. Crisp, Speaker; Mr. Hurt, doorkeeper and Mr. Snow sergeant-at-arms.

There was a notice of contest from the Fifth district of Michigan, two parties holding certificates from different sets of State officials.

Mr. Wells, of Duplin, is trying to get on the Capitol police force in Washington.

The Winston National bank has been granted further time to reorganize. All the North Carolina Congressmen, except Senator Vance, were at the opening of the extra session Monday.

Mr. Burkhead has many competitors for reading clerk in the House.

The probabilities are that the collectorship of internal revenue of the Eastern district attorneyship of the Western district will be settled this week.

Doorkeeper Hart says he is going to give North Carolina a good showing.

In the House drawing Representatives Alexander, Branch, Henderson and Woodard had early choice, and the first three secured their old and excellent seats. Mr. Woodard sits by Mr. Branch. Messrs. Bunn and Bower are at the extreme right in the Democratic rear, Messrs. Crawford and Grady in the extreme right of the Republicans, surrounded by Democrats. Mr. Settle is on third row of the Republican front.

Messrs. Holman, Reed and Simpson were appointed a committee to escort the Speaker to the chair, and as the distinguished gentleman entered the main door leading upon the arm of Mr. Holman the members broke into cheers.

After Speaker Crisp assumed the gavel a sudden hush fell upon the House and in a clear, but moved voice the Speaker said: "Representatives, profoundly grateful for this mark of your confidence, I shall try to be in the same degree worthy of it by an honest effort to discharge the duties of the office, on which I am about to enter, with fidelity, with courtesy and with the strictest impartiality. [Applause.] I am now ready to take the oath of office."

The oath was then impressively administered by the father of the House, Mr. O'Neill, of Pennsylvania.

Prayer was then offered by the blind chaplain of the last House, the Rev. Dr. Milburn. The work of administering the oath of office to the members-elect was then entered upon. In squads of two dozen they, as their names were called, took their stand in the front of the Speaker's desk and with right hand raised swore to obey the constitution and the laws of their country.

It will astonish you how quick John's Magnetic Oil will kill all pains. Sold by Robinson Bros. Goldsboro N.

A SHORT SPECIAL SESSION.

Like the Philadelphia Times we say, let us have a short special session of 1861, called to meet the new and appalling issues of civil war, met on the 4th of July and ended on the 5th of August.

The business of the country is paralyzed to-day solely because of impaired national credit, resulting from the adoption of an unsound financial policy. There are other causes which contribute to the industrial depression and intensify the evils of the business revulsion; but they need time for healthy treatment.

The first duty of Congress is to repeal the clause of the Sherman law requiring the monthly purchase of silver. By that law we are now buying silver that we do not want and cannot use with gold that is the life-blood of our financial credit. It is so because the world so decrees it, and we must conform to the financial judgment of the world or accept commercial isolation and ruin.

If the silver men are wise they will interpose no obstacle and demand no conditions to the repeal of the silver purchase feature of the Sherman law. Every organized effort of the silver men to delay repeal, and every effort made by them to force conditions in the line of the free coinage of silver, must surely prejudice the silver cause with both Congress and the nation.

In no way could the silver Senators and Representatives so well aid their cause as by promptly consenting to the unconditional repeal of the silver purchases. They have vantage ground in any subsequent contest for maintenance of silver as money, in the fact that silver now largely enters into our circulating medium; and conservative men of all shades of conviction on the subject, will be glad to co-operate in preserving silver money to any extent compatible with a sound financial policy.

Fatuous resistance to the repeal of the purchase of silver by the free silver men, can result only in forcing the country to hew to the line in reaching a true money basis; and it is such a contest silver must lose at every stage of the conflict. One million people interested in silver, even with eighteen Senators against Pennsylvania's more than five times the population with two Senators, cannot shape a financial policy solely in the interest of the few and against the interests of the many and the settled judgment of the world. Common sense should come to the relief of the silver men when the facts are looked squarely in the face; and common sense on the part of the silver champions will do vastly more for silver than revolutionary methods.

With the silver purchase clause of the Sherman bill repealed, Congress should adjourn, leaving to the proper committees the careful and patient preparation of tariff and money reform measures to be considered not later than October. With wisely chosen Committees on Ways and Means and Banking and Currency, and a recess of two months for the framing of bills, both tariff revision and a liberal and sound financial system, retaining silver as an integral part of our circulating medium, could be passed early in the fall.

A new basis for our circulating medium, with greater flexibility and absolute safety, is a pressing necessity; but it could be more wisely done two months hence than now. Tariff reform is also a pressing necessity to relieve our industry from wanton taxes on the necessities of business and labor of oppressive taxes on the necessities of life; but tariff revision cannot be violent or revolutionary, and it will be the labor of weeks and months to frame a measure to meet the requirements of the country.

It would be specially injurious to our already prostrated business and industrial interests to venture upon the troubled sea of tariff and currency reform debate. Congress would be a great ship in tempestuous waters without rudder or compass, and only harm could result from such an experiment. Stop the purchase of silver and give to the proper committees the solution of tariff and currency reform until October. Then—go home!
